My name is Jackie Schneider. I'm a reservist (prior active duty) and a full time PhD student at GW. My co-author and I are currently researching unmanned weaponry and feel that the perspective of those calling in air strikes from the ground has been generally overlooked when discussing the pros and cons of drones (RPAs, UAS, UAV . . . ). In order to capture that important perspective, we have developed a short, strictly confidential 6-9 minute survey about experiences and preferences towards manned and unmanned air platforms. If you were at any time JTAC/FAC certified or acted as a JFO to call in air strikes in combat, we would appreciate your responses!

The secure survey link is below:

We appreciate your time and also would love it (i.e. our project depends on it) if you forwarded the link to any JTAC qualified (or similarly authorized to call in air strikes) personnel. Please don't hesitate to contact me or my co-author, Julia Macdonald, with any and all questions and suggestions. Our research would benefit tremendously from your input and we appreciate all your support.

Thank you so much for your time,
Jackie "Shic" Schneider
